

BUSINESS CARDS.

W. MANSUR.
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
and Solicitor in Chancery,
Island Pond, Vermont.

W. LUND.
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Canaan, Vermont.

D. HALE.
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Lunenburg, Va.

ALFRED R. EVANS.
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
AND NOTARY PUBLIC.

W. SCOTT.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Office in the Vance Block,
LUNEBURG, VT.

BATES & MAY.
ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
C. JOHNS-BURY, - VT.

ELIZ.
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Island Pond, Vt.

C. D. NICHOLS.
WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER,
CROSS STREET, - Island Pond, Vt.

J. FLAHERTY.
LAWYER,
Office in Cook's Block, Canaan, Vt.

DR. H. SMITH.
J. W. PALMER.
SMITH & PALMER,
Wholesale & Lumber,
Northampton, Mass.

Dental Notice.
I make Artificial Teeth without rubber or metal plates.
Dentures, Crowns, Porcelain Crowns and Bridge Work a Specialty.

DR. R. G. FICKETT, Dentist,
243 Middle St., - Portland, Me.

W. STEVENS.
DEPUTY SHERIFF
for Orleans County, Office at J. S. Case
Bldg., EAST CHARLESTON, VERMONT.

GILLIARD'S POOL CIGARS.
W. W. CHENEY.
BARBER,
Island Pond House, Island Pond, Vt.

MELCHER & HOUSE.
GROVETON, N. H.
TIBBETTS & McNALLY, - Proprietors.

DENTIST.
JENIE'S BLOK, COATCOOK, P. Q.
At the Hotel, Island Pond, Vt., on the 1st floor in each month.

MONADNOCK HOUSE.
COLEBROOK, N. H.
T. G. ROWAN, - PROPRIETOR.

Geo. M. Stevens & Son.
GENERAL INSURANCE AGENTS,
Lunenburg, N. H.

SUTTON BROTHERS.
Dentists -
Coatcook, P. Q. and Island Pond, Vt.

CARS OFF THEIR TROTTLES STILL.

Strike in Brooklyn Continues But Violence and Disorder Rapidly Growing Less.

Mob Depredations Not Feared So Much As Individual Cases of Brutality—Report Denied by Master Workman Connelly That the Strike is to be Declared Off—Companies Threatened With 2400 Suits For Various Causes—Imported Help Spirited Out Of Town by Ex-employees—Full Text of Writ of Mandamus Issued by Judge Gaynor—Boycott Declared by Central Labor Union.

FIGHT WITH WIRE-CUTTERS IN THE EASTERN DISTRICT.

Violence and disorder continue in Brooklyn, N. Y., but not to the extent that marked several days of last week, when it was necessary for the soldiers to shoot to kill. It is not so much violence now that citizens have to fear as it is individual cases of brutal assault. The rough element, composed largely, probably, of toughs who take advantage of the general excitement, have about learned that if they do their work in crowds the soldiers can be depended upon to punish them, but if they work by ones and twos they can escape before even a alarm can be raised.

There were many exhibitions of lawlessness and some of brutality. One case was that of John Coppinger, 37 years old, who was assaulted at the corner of Hudson and Calver streets. Coppinger was not a non-union worker. He had nothing at all to do with the strike and as far as known had no interest in the way or manner in which the strike was being conducted. He was a good man, and was well known to his neighbors. He was a native-born American, and was a member of the Central Labor Union.

There were many exhibitions of lawlessness and some of brutality. One case was that of John Coppinger, 37 years old, who was assaulted at the corner of Hudson and Calver streets. Coppinger was not a non-union worker. He had nothing at all to do with the strike and as far as known had no interest in the way or manner in which the strike was being conducted. He was a good man, and was well known to his neighbors. He was a native-born American, and was a member of the Central Labor Union.

There were many exhibitions of lawlessness and some of brutality. One case was that of John Coppinger, 37 years old, who was assaulted at the corner of Hudson and Calver streets. Coppinger was not a non-union worker. He had nothing at all to do with the strike and as far as known had no interest in the way or manner in which the strike was being conducted. He was a good man, and was well known to his neighbors. He was a native-born American, and was a member of the Central Labor Union.

There were many exhibitions of lawlessness and some of brutality. One case was that of John Coppinger, 37 years old, who was assaulted at the corner of Hudson and Calver streets. Coppinger was not a non-union worker. He had nothing at all to do with the strike and as far as known had no interest in the way or manner in which the strike was being conducted. He was a good man, and was well known to his neighbors. He was a native-born American, and was a member of the Central Labor Union.

There were many exhibitions of lawlessness and some of brutality. One case was that of John Coppinger, 37 years old, who was assaulted at the corner of Hudson and Calver streets. Coppinger was not a non-union worker. He had nothing at all to do with the strike and as far as known had no interest in the way or manner in which the strike was being conducted. He was a good man, and was well known to his neighbors. He was a native-born American, and was a member of the Central Labor Union.

There were many exhibitions of lawlessness and some of brutality. One case was that of John Coppinger, 37 years old, who was assaulted at the corner of Hudson and Calver streets. Coppinger was not a non-union worker. He had nothing at all to do with the strike and as far as known had no interest in the way or manner in which the strike was being conducted. He was a good man, and was well known to his neighbors. He was a native-born American, and was a member of the Central Labor Union.

There were many exhibitions of lawlessness and some of brutality. One case was that of John Coppinger, 37 years old, who was assaulted at the corner of Hudson and Calver streets. Coppinger was not a non-union worker. He had nothing at all to do with the strike and as far as known had no interest in the way or manner in which the strike was being conducted. He was a good man, and was well known to his neighbors. He was a native-born American, and was a member of the Central Labor Union.

There were many exhibitions of lawlessness and some of brutality. One case was that of John Coppinger, 37 years old, who was assaulted at the corner of Hudson and Calver streets. Coppinger was not a non-union worker. He had nothing at all to do with the strike and as far as known had no interest in the way or manner in which the strike was being conducted. He was a good man, and was well known to his neighbors. He was a native-born American, and was a member of the Central Labor Union.

There were many exhibitions of lawlessness and some of brutality. One case was that of John Coppinger, 37 years old, who was assaulted at the corner of Hudson and Calver streets. Coppinger was not a non-union worker. He had nothing at all to do with the strike and as far as known had no interest in the way or manner in which the strike was being conducted. He was a good man, and was well known to his neighbors. He was a native-born American, and was a member of the Central Labor Union.

There were many exhibitions of lawlessness and some of brutality. One case was that of John Coppinger, 37 years old, who was assaulted at the corner of Hudson and Calver streets. Coppinger was not a non-union worker. He had nothing at all to do with the strike and as far as known had no interest in the way or manner in which the strike was being conducted. He was a good man, and was well known to his neighbors. He was a native-born American, and was a member of the Central Labor Union.

There were many exhibitions of lawlessness and some of brutality. One case was that of John Coppinger, 37 years old, who was assaulted at the corner of Hudson and Calver streets. Coppinger was not a non-union worker. He had nothing at all to do with the strike and as far as known had no interest in the way or manner in which the strike was being conducted. He was a good man, and was well known to his neighbors. He was a native-born American, and was a member of the Central Labor Union.

There were many exhibitions of lawlessness and some of brutality. One case was that of John Coppinger, 37 years old, who was assaulted at the corner of Hudson and Calver streets. Coppinger was not a non-union worker. He had nothing at all to do with the strike and as far as known had no interest in the way or manner in which the strike was being conducted. He was a good man, and was well known to his neighbors. He was a native-born American, and was a member of the Central Labor Union.

WRIT OF MANDAMUS.

Judge Gaynor's Decision Practically Restores Former Situation.

Judge Gaynor's alternative writ of mandamus is regarded as favorable to the companies. The case will now be tried by a jury and the company has twenty days in which to answer. Mr. Leader's application was for a writ to compel the company to operate its cars.

The full text of Judge Gaynor's opinion follows: "My view of this case remains substantially the same as it was at the close of the argument upon the first hearing. This corporation is primarily a public one, and its duty to the public is paramount to its duty to its stockholders. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation."

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

This court, upon this application, stands between the public and this corporation, and may not sever from a full declaration of the law of the land. It is the duty of the corporation to operate its cars for the benefit of the public, and it is the duty of the public to use the cars for the benefit of the corporation.

MEN DESERT THEM.

Trades Companies Can't Hold Men Hired to Take Strikers' Places.

What the Brooklyn corporations need in order to defeat their overworked, underpaid employees is not a strike, but a desertion. They have been spending the former quite freely, and just as freely have the Executive Committee of District Assembly 75 of the Knights of Labor been spending money to get the men from the companies and send them back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

In order to induce men to leave their homes in strange cities, the companies, through their agents, stop at no expense to get the men from the companies and send them back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

There is always an army going and coming from Brooklyn. The companies have had enough men in their employ since the beginning of the trouble, to take the places of all the strikers. But as fast as they come they are sent back to their homes. Beyond the mere spending of money, however, the methods of the corporations differ greatly from those of the Knights.

CHURCHILL IS DEAD.

End of a Brilliant and Erratic Career.

Princess Kaiulani Gives up all Claim to Hawaiian Throne.

Anarchists Commit Outrages in Belgium—Italian Success in London.

Lord Randolph Churchill died recently at his residence, 30 Grosvenor Square, London. All the members of his family were present at his bedside when he breathed his last. Lord Randolph Churchill was the second son of the seventh Duke of Marlborough. He was born on February 12, 1818, and was educated at Eton College, Oxford. He represented Woodstock in the House of Commons from February, 1874, until April, 1880, and again from that time when he was returned with a Conservative majority until November, 1885. He was defeated, and then returned for South Fillingham, Lincolnshire, in 1886. He was elected to the House of Commons in 1886, and was elected to the House of Commons in 1886.

On the accession of Lord Salisbury's government to office, in 1895, Lord Randolph Churchill died the post of secretary of state for India, and his promotion to that high place was a proof of the importance that the Conservative government placed on his services. He was a brilliant and erratic career.

On the accession of Lord Salisbury's government to office, in 1895, Lord Randolph Churchill died the post of secretary of state for India, and his promotion to that high place was a proof of the importance that the Conservative government placed on his services. He was a brilliant and erratic career.

On the accession of Lord Salisbury's government to office, in 1895, Lord Randolph Churchill died the post of secretary of state for India, and his promotion to that high place was a proof of the importance that the Conservative government placed on his services. He was a brilliant and erratic career.

On the accession of Lord Salisbury's government to office, in 1895, Lord Randolph Churchill died the post of secretary of state for India, and his promotion to that high place was a proof of the importance that the Conservative government placed on his services. He was a brilliant and erratic career.

On the accession of Lord Salisbury's government to office, in 1895, Lord Randolph Churchill died the post of secretary of state for India, and his promotion to that high place was a proof of the importance that the Conservative government placed on his services. He was a brilliant and erratic career.

On the accession of Lord Salisbury's government to office, in 1895, Lord Randolph Churchill died the post of secretary of state for India, and his promotion to that high place was a proof of the importance that the Conservative government placed on his services. He was a brilliant and erratic career.

On the accession of Lord Salisbury's government to office, in 1895, Lord Randolph Churchill died the post of secretary of state for India, and his promotion to that high place was a proof of the importance that the Conservative government placed on his services. He was a brilliant and erratic career.

On the accession of Lord Salisbury's government to office, in 1895, Lord Randolph Churchill died the post of secretary of state for India, and his promotion to that high place was a proof of the importance that the Conservative government placed on his services. He was a brilliant and erratic career.

On the accession of Lord Salisbury's government to office, in 1895, Lord Randolph Churchill died the post of secretary of state for India, and his promotion to that high place was a proof of the importance that the Conservative government placed on his services. He was a brilliant and erratic career.

On the accession of Lord Salisbury's government to office, in 1895, Lord Randolph Churchill died the post of secretary of state for India, and his promotion to that high place was a proof of the importance that the Conservative government placed on his services. He was a brilliant and erratic career.

On the accession of Lord Salisbury's government to office, in 1895, Lord Randolph Churchill died the post of secretary of state for India, and his promotion to that high place was a proof of the importance that the Conservative government placed on his services. He was a brilliant and erratic career.

On the accession of Lord Salisbury's government to office, in 1895, Lord Randolph Churchill died the post of secretary of state for India, and his promotion to that high place was a proof of the importance that the Conservative government placed on his services. He was a brilliant and erratic career.

On the accession of Lord Salisbury's government to office, in 1895, Lord Randolph Churchill died the post of secretary of state for India, and his promotion to that high place was a proof of the importance that the Conservative government placed on his services. He was a brilliant and erratic career.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Terse Dispatches From All Over the Country.

Two men were killed and others injured in a collision near Boston, Mass. Dr. Whitford of Saratoga has been killed by a railroad train near Baiton Sp. N. Y. Cherokee Bill, one of the worst offenders in O. T. territory, has been killed in Tulsa, Okla.

Fire has destroyed the Lyman Hotel in Litchfield, N. Y., and the hotel which adjoined it. Loss, $7,000. Two sides in the station of the Consolidated Railroad at Winsted, Conn., have been blown open by burglars and robbers of $20,000.

The town board of Moravia, N. Y., has voted to purchase a Mervin motor machine, to be used in fighting the March town meeting. Edward Rivers of Henderson, Ky., a victim of morphine, killed his son, aged 6, and his daughter, aged 8, at their home near Brownsville, Ky., and committed suicide by shooting.

Birmingham N. Y. Bank has a large amount of bonds as security on loans made to the firm of Quigley & Tuttle. The bank says there is not enough of them to cripple them in any way. It is reported in shipping circles that the schooner Ella Johnson, which left Seattle, Wash., on Jan. 18, under command of Captain J. H. Johnson, has been wrecked on a reef off the coast of Alaska.

The total sum netted by the sale of the horses and carriages belonging to Edward O. Quigley, the bond swindler, of New York, aggregated $24,000. The sale was held under the order of the Mercantile National Bank.

The attorneys for the children of the late James G. Fair have applied for a writ of habeas corpus to produce in court at San Francisco Cal., all the wills of the dead millionaire. Judge Stock denied the application. It will be taken to the Supreme Court.

In the suit at Duluth, Minn., of Alfred Merritt vs. John D. Rockefeller and F. T. Gates, to recover $1,225,400 on a mining deal, Judge Nelson of the federal court has set aside an attachment secured by Merritt against the property of the defendants, Mr. Rockefeller filing a bond of twice the stated value of the bond.

FARMERS ALARMED.
Many Tuberculous Cows Killed at Hoilis, Amherst and Milford, N. H.

The farmers in the vicinity of Nashua, N. H., are very much alarmed by the prevalence of tuberculous diseases among cows. Veterinarians have been at work several days in Hoilis, Amherst and Milford and have found many animals in advanced stages of the disease. These animals have been killed and buried.

A huge scheme. A Bill to Allow One Railroad From the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Representative Childs of Illinois introduced a bill at Washington, D. C., to incorporate the national Central Railway Company. It creates William Doherty, J. C. Caldwell, J. W. Reed and J. C. Reynolds of Chicago, John B. Hays of New York, and others, a corporation by the above named and authorizes it to construct and maintain a continuous railroad from the Hudson river to the Gulf of Mexico.

The company is authorized to lease or purchase all such portions of existing railroads as in its judgment are so located that they can be incorporated into a single line of travel.

Scarlet Fever Epidemic. An epidemic of scarlet fever prevails in Halifax, N. S., and many deaths have occurred. The disease was taken into the Victoria General Hospital, and half a dozen of the nurses contracted it. They were removed to the hospital for infectious diseases, but the fever still lingered in the General Hospital and spread among the patients. In some cases whole families of children were stricken down.

THE MEXICAN CONTEST.
Guatemala's Answer Is On the Way—An American's Offer.

The third paper under seal from Guatemala by its Minister De Leon is on route to the City of Mexico. Until this letter is received, the negotiations between Mexico and Guatemala will be known. A prominent American has offered to organize an American legion to fight against Guatemala if war is declared. The government has contracted for the purchase of 25,000 rifles of the finest make.

Help Arrived Too Late. Mrs. Mary Hoop and her 3-year-old child were found frozen to death at Warsaw, Ind., by a committee from the Ladies' Charitable Bazaar, which had gone to them with a quantity of provisions and clothing. They lived in a single room, and when found were without fuel or food.